Also with your signature of acceptance, it is understood that United Cabinets LLC will not replace or repair any components of the products due to exceeding normal expectations or use, including but not limited to:

Wood

Due to natural imperfections such as knots, light or dark streaks, grain variations or differences in density, which are sometimes highlighted by stains, finishes, and lighting, wood pieces often may not appear to be an exact match. Wood often shows change in color when exposed to different light, and changes with age. You should not expect an exact match in all pieces, and United Cabinets, LLC is not responsible for the natural effects of lighting and aging.

Finish

United Cabinets, LLC offers several quality protective top-coat finishes, glazes and custom stains designed to preserve the look and feel of the products for years to come. Even under normal use, these finishes eventually will begin to display aging. However, several variables in the maintenance of the product can effect this process, including exposure to moisture, corrosive or abrasive solvents, harsh chemical cleaners and Ultra-Violet light.

United Cabinets, LLC suggests that the owner avoid exposing the cabinetry to products not designed to clean or treat wood cabinetry, in order to avoid damage or premature aging on the finish and will not replace or refinish the products in the case that such damage does occur.

Hinges and Hardware

United Cabinets, LLC checks and installs hinges, drawer guides and other hardware to ensure that they are operating with maximum efficiency and guarantees to have found no defects or malfunctions in the products before asking the purchaser to sign that the products meet their satisfaction. If the hinges, drawer guides or all parts and components thereof, are opened, pulled beyond their normal operational range or unevenly distributed weight is placed upon the drawers, doors or shelving, the product may malfunction, break or fail to work consistently. United Cabinets, LLC will not repair or replace these parts due to improper usage as outlined.
